CONGRESS THROUGH UNTIL JANUARY 4

Extension of War Revenue Act

Passed and Signed by President.

BITTER PARTISAN DEBATE INDULGED IN BY SENATE

Senators Underwood and Penrose

Clash on Blame for Treasury Deficit.

The Capitol building, for the last two weeks the scene of congressional activity, today practically was deserted.

Virtually all the members of Congress, following adjournment last night for the Christmas holidays, were homeward bound, not to return until the reopening of the national legislature January 4.

One of the final acts was the passage by the Senate of the House joint resolution extending the emergency revenue law until December 31, 1916.

President Wilson shortly afterward affixed his signature to the measure.

Passed by a Party Vote.

Adoption of the resolution came after a lively partisan debate by a vote of 45 to 25.

The measure had the full support of the democrats and the solid opposition of the republicans.

A resolution asking the President to set aside a day during the holiday season for an appeal to the American people to aid in relieving suffering in Poland due to the war was passed by the Senate.

Underwood Defends Tariff.

During the debate on the war tax resolution, Senator Underwood, author of the present tariff law, defended the revenue measure in his maiden speech in the Senate.

When the tariff law was passed, Senator Underwood said, no man was able to foretell the war and its effect upon American revenues.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, who led in the minority attack on the resolution, interrupted Senator Underwood's speech to draw a picture of idle men in his state during his campaign for reelection last year.

He said the present prosperity in the steel business was due to the war and immense purchases by belligerent governments.

The De La Warr family in England, said Senator Underwood in reply, has made clear his belief that the depression which followed the terror of the first few months of the war was due entirely to the democratic administration, but that the present prosperity alone is due to the war.

Party Issues Defined.

"This discussion, today, while not illuminative on the fiscal condition of the country, has clearly defined the issues between the two great parties on questions of legislation.

Mr. Penrose says we are committing a crime against the American people by reducing the customs duties and replacing them with taxation resting solely on the wealth of the country."

Revenues were greater in the first year of the present tariff law, he added, than in the last year of Payne law.

Senator Penrose insisted that the war had been a political blessing to the democratic party rather than a handicap to the successful working out of its free trade policy.

Says War Saved Treasury.

"The Treasury deficit, which is blamed on the European war," he said, "would, in my opinion, be a thousand times worse were it not for the war in Europe."

The war in Europe has been the only cause which has saved the fiscal policy of the party now in power from the most gigantic collapse ever witnessed in a civilized country.

I believe if we had not had the war in Europe we would have had the blackest times in the history of the American republic, compared to which the depression under Cleveland's second administration and under the Wilson-Gorman law would have been insignificant.

Republicans who joined in the debate included Senators Lodge, Smoot, Grosvenor, Gallinger and Weeks. Senators Simmons and Gore supported Senators Underwood and Penrose.

An amendment by Senator Smoot to extend the law only until June 30 next was defeated by a vote of 50 to 25.

Earl De La Warr Dead.

LONDON, December 18.—Earl De La Warr died Thursday, at Messina, from rheumatic fever, followed by pneumonia. He had been serving in the Dardanelles.

The De La Warr family is one of the oldest and most distinguished in England, the first Baron De La Warr having received his title in 1209. The star of Delaware was named after one of the lords De La Warr.

Bern Peace Congress Postponed.

GENEVA, via Paris, December 18.—The peace congress at Bern has been postponed until spring, only half of the delegates being able to attend. France has refused to send representatives.

Adoption of the resolution came after a lively partisan debate by a vote of 45 to 25.

The measure had the full support of the democrats and the solid opposition of the republicans.
